Dr. Tim McDermott has been an Extension Educator in Agriculture and Natural Resources for the past four years after twenty years in private practice veterinary medicine and surgery. He lectures state wide to audiences on poultry topics including nutrition, husbandry, biosecurity, and disease management. He is a visiting instructor to the Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine teaching 4th year veterinary students the poultry component of the Veterinary Preventative Medicine rotation.

Where: AgCredit Building 5362 US HWY 42 Mt. Gilead Ohio
Second Floor Conference Room

Tuesday March 31st @ 6:00 p.m.